a wild wild rest

Go camping, of course with modern amenities in the midst of a jungle at the Jamtara Wilderness Camp, Madhya Pradesh and make the most of luxury in back woods

Every once in a while, there can be nothing more healing and refreshing, than a trip away from the madness of the hectic city life. The Jamtara Wilderness Camp is one such destination to head to. Here, you can simply cut-off from the world, and enjoy a whole new restorative experience, relaxing and unwinding surrounded by absolute wilderness. A day at Jamtara starts with waking up to the chirping of the birds, instead of the cell phone or alarm clock, and be greeted by a warm stream of sunlight that will brighten both your morning and spirit.

Jamtara is indeed an ideal getaway for the nature lover, as the camp is situated in the heart of rural Pench in Madhya Pradesh. The 12 room luxury tented property is a two-minute drive from the Pench National Park, and prides to be the only one in such close proximity. What makes the stay even more enthralling is the fact that the property is set up on the periphery of the jungle. What's more, without an actual fence enclosing the park, the wild animals are free to roam around, and the guests can indulge in guided walks and drives for some close encounters with their favourite animals.

The camps at Jamtara are one-of-a-kind. Fully equipped with all the modern-day amenities, the tents have been decorated in colonial style safari with hardwood flooring and wooden furniture to make it as natural as possible. Each tent comes with a private patio that faces the riverbed, where guests can relax and take a nap, spend the afternoon soaking in some nature or sun, or even have a refreshment before their meal. If you are lucky, you might just catch a glimpse of a wild animal quenching its thirst by the river!

An added touch to the Jamtara experience is the 'star bed'. True to their name, the star beds are placed high up on stilts, where guests can have their fill of star-gazing or wildlife-spotting. A sky scout (sky reader) is also available to help visitors point out and learn about the constellations. A stay at the Jamtara Wilderness Camp is quite incomplete without visiting the rural Jamtara Village, which transports you back in time with the use of minimal means of transportation, electronics and machines. 🌿
